

Name: _____ Date: _____

_____ earned an ME grade for her internship work. We spent our internship time with different community gardening mentors and sites around Columbus — Ohio School for the Deaf, Weinland Park/Godman Guild Community Garden, Four Seasons City Farms, Stratford Ecological Center, and Shepherd's Corners. The students were asked to come prepared to site, learn from our mentors, and to work diligently while they were there. Academically, the students were also asked to meet Foundations Portfolio due dates and to turn in high quality reflections and projects. _____ turned in most of her assignments and worked hard at site. She did an excellent job on her creative final project, and was a positive, helpful, and considerate member of the group. In order to improve for next year, _____ should try to stay on top of due dates and practice her presentation all the way through to help her manage time. _____ was a delight to have as an advisee.

Things are improving for _____! He is putting forth more effort and seems to be enjoying his site more. He has made good connections with other students, and has opened himself up more to the group. These are all important components to working with a group of people to accomplish a goal. However, _____ comes to school tardy EVERYDAY and makes no effort to apologize or to find out what he missed. This needs to change immediately.

_____ is meeting expectations. This grade was a tough decision to make because in many aspects she is exceeding my expectations; she is passionate about making true change, learning all that she can, asking incredibly insightful questions, improving her interpersonal communication skills, and inspiring others. However, _____ still struggles to come prepared with lunch, water, proper clothing, as well as a planner. These are the very minimum of my requirements for professionalism. Also, despite all of the wonderful aspects of _____'s personality that seem to shine at our sites, she still can be defiant (especially when it comes to journaling/reflecting).

_____ is exceeding expectations. _____ is a hard working, dependable, and thoughtful member of our community gardening internship. She puts effort into all aspects of her work, from physical labor to research to reflection. She is so kind to the other group members, and treats everyone with respect. She comes consistently prepared to group and always acts professionally. I couldn't ask for a better group member! If there was one thing I could suggest for _____ to focus on for next quarter, it would be to interact more with all of the group members and site mentors, including building the foundations for friendship through conversation and asking questions.
