DIRECTIONS: Extend your knowledge of your internship site or a community business or institution by observing its role in the wider community. Use the following questions to determine how your organization serves the local and/or wider community. Suggest a graphic organizer to collect, display, and communicate each type of data. Identify the source for each question.

Question	Graphic Organizer	Where to Find Data
Where is it located?
What types of products or services does it produce, create or distribute?
Who does it serve? (customers, children, adults, animals, etc.)
What motivated its creation?
How long has it existed?
Does it serve the local community or the wider community? Both? Explain.

Use the answers and your observations to complete a graphic organizer that illustrates how the organization serves the community. Show how the products or services are created and then distributed to the community. Select a graphic organizer that best suits the flow of products and services from the organization to the community.

Written Reflection Prompt:

Using your graphic organizer for material to write two paragraphs about how your organization functions in the community. Explain the purpose of your organization within the community, describing which community/communities it serves.
